petri huurinainen

liminal spaces

...for those who are not here- not there

©petri huurinainen 2025

liminal spaces meditates on being in-between, affirming the beauty of not fully belonging anywhere playing a long sound but not really playing a long sound playing loudly but not really playing loudly playing quietly

but not really playing quietly playing a beautiful melody but not really playing a beautiful melody playing an ugly sound but not really playing an ugly sound playing a passage from the favourite film but not really playing a passage from the favourite film playing dramatically and passionately but not really playing dramatically and passionately playing faster and faster but not really playing faster and faster playing a lost memory but not really playing a lost memory playing an emotional passage from childhood trauma

but not really playing it playing impossibly high chord

but not really playing it

playing conceptually challenging concept

but not really playing it

playing and looping a section intuitively backwards but not really playing and looping intuitively backwards playing attentively everything according to this score but not really playing everything attentively according to this score